

Identifying Your Strengths

Your unfair advantages and what you uniquely bring to the table

Name: _____

Date: _____

Class: _____

Part 1 — Watch the Video First

Watch: The Power of an Entrepreneurial Mindset — Bill Roche (TEDxLangleyED)

URL: youtube.com/watch?v=lhs4VFZWwn4 (14 min)

1. What does Bill Roche say an entrepreneurial mindset means — beyond just starting a business?
2. The video shares real student stories. What surprised you most about what these young people built?
3. Can an entrepreneurial mindset be taught and developed? What evidence does Roche give?

Part 2 — Video Summary

Read this summary carefully — the quiz is based on these key ideas.

What an entrepreneurial mindset actually means

- Roche defines an entrepreneurial mindset as: being flexible and adaptable, able to see change before it happens, able to identify opportunities, and having the confidence to act on them.
- Crucially, he says this is NOT about everyone becoming a business owner — it is about having skills that help you succeed in any path you choose.
- The skills of an entrepreneurial mindset: creativity, critical thinking, problem-solving, and communication.
- These skills are not personality traits you are born with — they are developed through practice, especially by doing real projects.

Student stories from the video

- A student with social performance anxiety sold out his product at an entrepreneur show — the project helped him overcome a real barrier.
- Mimi created 'Roadkill Kitties' — unusual cat toys that showed her creativity when given the freedom to make something real.
- Tyler added customizable parts to his product after listening to customer feedback — demonstrating real market thinking.
- A student with behavioral challenges transformed through the program, showing that structure and ownership build confidence.
- Key takeaway: the students who thrived were not the ones with the best grades — they were the ones who were given freedom and responsibility.

Your 'unfair advantages'

Identifying Your Strengths

Your unfair advantages and what you uniquely bring to the table

- An 'unfair advantage' is something you have that others do not — a skill, experience, network, or way of seeing the world.
- Your background, identity, and personal experiences are assets — they give you unique insight into problems others may not notice.
- Your strengths are often things you do naturally that others struggle with: explaining things clearly, organizing, connecting people, building things, designing, etc.
- Self-awareness — knowing what you are genuinely good at — is one of the most valuable entrepreneurial skills of all.

Building your Founder Profile

- A Founder Profile is a short, honest summary of: your top 3 strengths, your top 3 interests, and your unfair advantages.
- The best businesses are built at the intersection of what you are good at, what you care about, and what the world needs.
- You do not need to have everything figured out — your strengths and interests will evolve as you grow.
- Start by asking: What do people always come to me for? What could I spend hours doing without getting bored? What problems do I notice that others seem to ignore?

Part 3 — Key Vocabulary

Entrepreneurial Mindset	A way of thinking characterized by flexibility, opportunity-spotting, creativity, problem-solving, and confidence to act.
Unfair Advantage	A unique combination of skills, experiences, knowledge, or perspective that gives you an edge others do not have.
Self-Awareness	The ability to accurately recognize your own strengths, weaknesses, values, and motivations.
Founder Profile	A short personal summary of your top strengths, interests, and unique advantages as a potential entrepreneur.
Creativity	The ability to generate new ideas and see existing things in new ways — a core entrepreneurial skill.
Critical Thinking	The ability to analyze information objectively, question assumptions, and make reasoned judgments.
Confidence	Belief in your own ability to succeed — built through taking action and completing real challenges.
Adaptability	The ability to adjust your approach when circumstances change — essential in the unpredictable world of entrepreneurship.

Identifying Your Strengths

Your unfair advantages and what you uniquely bring to the table

Part 4 — Lesson Quiz

Circle the letter of the best answer for questions 1-4. Write your response for question 5 on the lines provided.

Do not look up the answers — complete this from memory after watching the video and reading the summary. Upload your completed sheet at futureceolab.com to see your score, which questions you got right, and the correct answers for any you missed.

Q1. According to Bill Roche, what is the PRIMARY benefit of developing an entrepreneurial mindset?

- ☐ A It guarantees you will start a successful business
- ☐ B It makes you more likely to get into a good university
- ☐ C It gives you the flexibility, confidence, and skills to succeed in any career — not just business ownership
- ☐ D It helps you make more money than people who work regular jobs

Q2. The video shows that an entrepreneurial mindset can be DEVELOPED rather than being something you are born with. What is the BEST evidence for this from the student stories?

- ☐ A The students all had natural talent for business from a young age
- ☐ B A student with social performance anxiety sold out his product after participating in the program
- ☐ C All the students got perfect grades in their regular classes after the program
- ☐ D The program only worked for students who were already confident

Q3. What does the term 'unfair advantage' mean in entrepreneurship?

- ☐ A Using illegal or unethical methods to beat competitors
- ☐ B Having wealthy parents who can fund your business
- ☐ C A unique combination of skills, experiences, or perspectives that give you an edge others do not have
- ☐ D Copying a competitor's idea and improving it slightly

Q4. A 'Founder Profile' helps entrepreneurs do which of the following?

- ☐ A Register their business legally and set up a bank account
- ☐ B Understand their own strengths, interests, and unique advantages before choosing a business direction
- ☐ C Find investors who will fund their startup idea
- ☐ D Build their social media following before launching a product

Identifying Your Strengths

Your unfair advantages and what you uniquely bring to the table

Short Answer — Question 5

Q5. Write your own mini Founder Profile. Include: (1) your top 3 strengths — things you are genuinely good at, (2) your top 3 interests — things you could spend hours doing, and (3) one 'unfair advantage' — something unique about your background, experience, or perspective that others might not have.

Write your answer here:

Reflection Journal (optional — not graded)

"What is something you are naturally good at that you have never thought of as a business skill? How could that strength be valuable to someone else — enough that they might pay for it?"

Write your reflection here:

How to get your grade: Take a clear, well-lit photo of this completed sheet — make sure every circled answer is easy to read. Go to futureceolab.com, open this lesson, and upload your photo. The site will scan your answers, show your score out of 5, mark each question green (correct) or red (incorrect), and reveal the right answer with an explanation for every question you missed. No answers are shown until after you submit.